MAP OF HONOLULU.

We are indebted to Professor Alexander, chief of the Survey Department, for an excellent wall map of Honolulu and surroundings. It is the production of the Survey Department, and is drawn with remarkable clearness. In addition to marking out the limits of all properties of importance, it gives the names of their respective owners, and embraces a much greater area than any other existing chart that we have seen. The Eastern part of the map begins at Diamond Head, taking in a part of the ocean beyond the reef on the South, and extending inland to a distance of over three miles. The roads, enclosures, elevations, etc., are most distinctly marked throughout, and the map includes a considerable portion of the Palolo, Manoa, Pauoa, Nuuanu, and Kalihi Valleys, taking in the Kamehameha school beyond Palama. To the seaward of Honolulu, following the line of coral reef from Diamond Head, the entrance to the harbor is so clearly drawn, giving the positions of the Bell, Spar, Barrel, and other buoys, as to be of great service to vessels entering our port. Taken as a whole this map is a most creditable production, and must prove of very great service to the public at large as well as to the Department for which it was more particularly compiled. Copies may be had at the book stores.

BRITISH IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

Mr. W. H. Smith in a recent speech at Gloucester, England, said that carrying out the colonial defence scheme meant practically Imperial federation, as the colonies had become partners with England in defending their mutual interests. As an evidence that the attachment between the mother country and the colonies was enhanced by the distance which separates them, he quoted the fact that New South Wales had sent a contingent to the Sudan. He said the colonies were the life-blood of England, and must eventually become stronger and supersede the old country.

A MUNIFICENT OFFER.

At a meeting of the Congregational Union recently, in Melbourne, Australia, Mr. Geo. Taylor, a resident, offered to give $50,000 yearly for three years, if the public would subscribe a similar sum, for the establishment of a Congregational College in connection with the Melbourne University. The same gentleman also offered to give $100,000, on condition that the public would subscribe a similar amount, for the establishment of a school. A list was at once opened, and $50,000 were subscribed in the room.

HOW TO CATCH MILKTHIEVES?

A well-known citizen of Honolulu, recently, having been greatly annoyed by losing the contents of his milk can for several days in succession, at last desperately resolved to catch the thief or perish in the attempt. Accordingly he armed himself with a shot gun, charged to the muzzle, and at 2 a. m. arose from his bed and sallied forth with murderous intent, to await his victim. Soon the milkwagon arrived and the usual quantity of the (pure?) article was duly deposited in the can, and our hero, who was now thirsty, resolved that he would make certain of at least a portion of it, took a good drink, replaced the can, and once more lay in ambush. Slowly the hours passed, and no villain appeared, but our friend was determined, (as were also the mosquitoes) and persevered notwithstanding, until at last the darkness of night gave place to dawn, and finally the sun arose in all his glory. Still the thief came not, and the one in hiding came forth with a chuckle of satisfaction, happy in the thought that for once he would enjoy in full the lactical liquid contained in yonder can, and he hastened to grasp the prize, only to find it empty! His anathemas were deep and earnest as this unexplained emptiness broke upon him; but when upon a closer scrutiny of the offending receptacle a small hole was discovered in the bottom, he was strangely silent, and returned to the bosom of his family remarking that "he didn't care much for milk anyhow." A new can has now replaced the other, and all is peace in that household.

THREE DAYS' LATER NEWS.

The bark Lady Lampson, Capt. Sodergreen, arrived in port last evening fourteen days from San Francisco, with three days' later news. Following is a summary: An active revolution was in progress in Bolivia at latest accounts. Nikolaus de Luis, the German philologist, is dead.
William Reginald Courtenay, Earl of Devon, died in England, November 18th. He was in his eighty second year.

The Empress Victoria of Germany and her daughters are visiting Queen Victoria at Windsor Castle. There was a severe shock of earthquake in San Francisco on the 18th, at 2:28 o'clock p. m. The vibration lasted ten seconds, and its course varied from north to south, to northwest and southeast.
Major Farnsworth, Inspector-General, died at Fortress Monroe, Nov. 19.
The police of Lille, France, have arrested a gang of six men who several years ago stole in Brussels and Mons bonds of the value of $100,000.

The Beaver Falls Rolling Mills at Beaver Falls, Pa., was burned Nov. 19. Six men were seriously injured. Two will die.

Edmund Condina, the French dramatic author, is dead.
A spinning mill at Bella, Italy, was burned Nov. 19. Loss, $200,000. Three children were burned to death.

Heavy floods caused some destruction to crops during September in Chili. During one storm it is estimated that at least thirty-six inches of water fell, causing much damage in Valparaiso and the surrounding districts.

A special dispatch to the London Times from Tientsin says, the Chinese Government has learned that a secret treaty has been concluded between Russia and Corea, providing for a Russian protectorate of Corea.

A duel between Andrieux and Guyot, resulting from the charge made by the latter in La Lanterne that the Times trial was the outcome of collusion between Nuna Gilley and Andrieux, was fought at Paris, Nov. 20. Swords were used. Andrieux received a slight wound in the chest.

The London Standard regrets that Lord Randolph Churchill differed with Salisbury in regard to the Sackville affair. It says: "A knuckling-down policy is not the best nor the wisest policy in the face of such notorious and repeated aims of unfriendliness as we have recently experienced at the hands of the United States Government."

Marshal Bazaine's widow writes to the Paris Figaro denying that she left her husband through a disagreement. She states that she was compelled to go to Mexico on family matters, and that she regularly sent Marshal Bazaine sufficient remittances for all his needs. He did not, says the widow, die in poverty, notwithstanding that his mode of life made him poor, despite his supplies of funds.

The report comes from Rome that the Pope is going to issue an encyclical letter, in which he will urge upon the great powers the necessity of disavowment, in order to preserve the peace of Europe and prevent disastrous consequences to the industries and welfare of several countries by the drain of elaborate and increasing war measures. There is no direct confirmation of the report, and it is generally discredited although such a letter would surprise no one.

Plans for the proposed railway across the isthmus connecting Nova Scotia with New Brunswick have been approved by the Canadian Minister of Railways. Contracts have already been awarded two English capitalists aggregating $5,500,000, exclusive of terminals at either end, which promise to prove most expensive. Vessels bound for Europe from Boston and New York will save 500 miles by utilizing this railway. They may sail up the Bay of Fundy, after being hoisted by hydraulic lifts, and be transported to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The railway will be about forty miles long. The contracts call for the completion of the work by 1892.
